Denver Is Full and Running Over With

GALLANT KNIGHTS TEMPLARS

And Visitors, and Each Incoming Passenger Train Augments the Number. Sunday Scenes Described.

DESVER, Aug. 7.-Today the knights began to arrive more extensively than before. Colorado is filled with Knights Templars. The mountains and valleys, the pleasure resorts, the famous scenes, the growing camps, are overcrowded, and the railroads leading to Denver are groaning under their weight. Tonight and tomorrow they will be rushed into this city at the rate of 1,000 an hour.

There will be 50,000 arrivals tonight and Monday. This is no exaggeration. From every direction the railroads are speeding long trains in this city. If number is not more than 50,000, then the trains will not be as crowded as those which have already arrived, and advices are that they are turning away these who would come and find no room. There are fully 50,000 transient people in the city already. Denver has undergone a transformation within forty-eight hours such as has never occurred in the history of the country.

Chicago Wouldn't Mind It. Such a number would not affect New York or Chicago to a large extent, but to introduce an addition of one-third its population in such a short space of time and either city would throw up

Denver is beginning to exert it-self in order to take care of the throngs that will arrive in the next two days. The transformation did not come as a surprise and while the streets are crowded in the main thoroughfares and all the hotels have been retained. there is no uneasiness as to the care of were as varied, as pathetic, as amusing and as vivid as at any time yet and probably more so. It was a little world moved by an abnormal excitement all to itself. All the night previous the waiting rooms were filled with waiting waiting rooms were filled with waiting humanity. Some slept, but the majority were on their feet every time an engine whistled, expecting the arrival of the train that must bring a relative, a lover or a friend. The sleepers are shose who had stood the heat and discomfort of a passing over the prairies in an over-crowded car and who trusted to the fabled weather of the wild and wooly west for a home and food. Whatever ever for a home and food. Whatever cares or anxieties they might have were drowned in the sleep that began. The scene inside the depot was quaintly picturesque Sir Knights in full dress and Sir Knights in fatigue uniform marched up and down the pilgrim brethren that might arrive in their bright rainment and gleaming that belched forth from half a dozen newly fire switch engines standing at the northern end ready for service. The signals were changed and the scene changed also as if worked from the same signal box. Lanterns waved in the air and arms moved forth invitingly and the trains came pouring in.

Outside the gates the people pushed and crushed each other eager to get to the iron railing through which they eagerly gazed for the face familiar to them. On the Laviathan came snorting and sweating with 300 people. Before the crowd had embarked another train had arrived. The people that came on these trains were of all classes, but the majority had no sleep ers. There were lone women and little children, young men and aged men. Towards night the approaches to the deput became blocked for a long distance around the various streets. square in front was jammed full of Inside the immigrants were ourning forth again just as fast as the targe force of trainmen could handle the cars and added to the human stream that ran through the arteries of the city.

Secure Stock.

GUTHEIR, O. T., Aug. 7 .- Governor Seny yesterday received a telegram from C. F. Davis, inspector of the interior department at Arkansas City, saying that the commander at Fort Reno had been ordered by the secretary of war to remove all the cattle from the Cherokee strips; that Governor Humphrey of Kansas had ordered the sheriffs of all border counties to keep all cattle out of the state.

Governor Seay at once telegraphed instructions to every sheriff in Oklahoms that an attempt may be made to drive a portion of them through the territory and to prevent this at all hazterritory and to prevent this at all hazzards, as the passing of such cattle will endanger the stock of residents. An armed posse is already on duty on each county line and every cow that crosses into Oklahoma will be killed.

AENEID, I. T.—The leading cattle owners say they will sign their stock over to the Cherokee Indians before they will suffer the severe loss in making the long drive to Texas. In view of the fact that the Cherokee nation and barons are not on the best of terms it is a matter of conjecture whether this can be done.

To Be Held in One of the Capitals of Europe in October-Sketches of Their Lives.

Washington, Aug. 7 .- The names of five commissioners who are to represent the United States at the coming international monetary conference are officially announced. They are Senator William B. Allison, Iowa; Senator R. B. Jones of Nevada; Congressman James B. McCreary of Kentucky, ex-Comptroller Henry W. Cannon of New York, and General Francis A. Walker, Massachusta. With the exception of Mr. McCreary these names have all been among those discussed for the ap-

Senator Allison of Iowa has seen nearly twenty years service in the United States senate and was eight years a member of the house before his election to the senate. He is chairman of the committee on appropriations, a leading member of the committee on fi-nance and a recognized leader in financial matters. He voted against the Stewart free comage bill when it passed the senate in July last.

Senator Jones of Nevada has been an earnest advocate of free silver. He has not spoken often in the senate but whenever he has spoken on finance in that body his remarks have always commanded close and earnest attention. He also is a member of the senate committee on finance. Mr. McCreary of Kentucy succeeded Mr. Perry Bel-mont as chairman of the committee on foreign affairs in the house of repre-sentatives and has devoted consider-able attention to international questions. He introduced the bill which called out the Pan-American conference in Washington. He voted in favor of free silver. Mr. McCreary is serving his fourth term in congress. He is of course a democrat in politics. Mr. Cannon succeeded Mr. John J. Knox as United States comptroller of the currency and resigned to accept the currency and resigned to accept the presidency of the Chase national bank of New York. He is classed as opposed to the free coinage of silver under existing conditions. General Walker of Massachusetts, is a well known writer on economic ques-tions. He was superintendent of the tenth census and was a member of the tenth census and was a member of the international monetary conference held at Paris in 1878. He is president of the Massachusetts institute of technolizy, president of American statistical societies and honor fellow of the Royal Statistical Society of London.

The place of meeting of the conference is not yet definitely decided upon. It will be in one of the capitals of Europe, probably either Brussels or Berlin. The time, October.
